On Field Code of Conduct

- As we interact with players, officials, and spectators, we should continually consider what is right and beneficial for everyone involved. Our children learn fair play and societal values through sport, and their ability to think critically about fair conduct grows with their overall personal development.
- The Heavens Eleven Football Club expects all affiliated individuals to conduct themselves in a manner that enables every player to reach their full potential and, most importantly, to enjoy the game. This Code of Conduct outlines the principles by which all members of the Club must operate. Non-compliance may lead to disciplinary action, including potential termination of membership for players and/or coaches or termination of employment for referees. Parents and other spectators who fail to comply may also face disciplinary measures.
- The Club reserves the right to amend this Code of Conduct without notice should the City of Toronto/Peel or the Ontario Soccer Association revise their by-laws or policies.
